Dear Mark and Kim

It was a pleasure to meet you recently and hear about the plans you have for the Tyler Foundation to help children in Japan with cancer and their families.

I was struck by your strong wish and commitment to turn a tragic personal loss to good. By seeking to provide a service for other families in distress you are fulfilling an important need. Your determination to succeed, coupled with your business and organisational skills, will stand you in good stead and I can only wish you every success.

I am sorry that I will be unable to join in your Sports Extravaganza this year owing to prior commitments but I'm sure that it will be a resounding success given the impressive array of international sports stars you have managed to line up. I would be happy to lend support in some way on another occasion.

I have no objection to this letter being shared with others.

Yours sincerely
